This is a very special year for us as we celebrate 35 years of exhibiting and promoting sculpture in Ireland. We are delighted to be returning to the wonderful National Botanic Gardens after what has been a challenging year and a half.

Sculpture in Context 21 is bigger, better and brings together the work of over 140 artists using an incredible and varied range of media. These works of art represent the richly diverse character of Irish and International contemporary sculpture today. From the smallest most intricate ceramic works to steel sculptures on a monumental scale visitors to the exhibition will be enriched, inspired and captivated by seeing so many inspiring works in one location. The artistic integrity and technical skill involved in creating the works is evident throughout and highlights the breadth and depth of artistic talent and skill in Ireland today.
